

Jamie J. Gruffydd-Jones

---

Princeton University
Woodrow Wilson School
Robertson Hall
Princeton, NJ 08544

jamieg@princeton.edu
US: +1 (609) 498-2443
CHN: +86 (18858099345) 498-2443

EDUCATION

Princeton University

Ph.D. Candidate, Security Studies, (expected May 2017)
Fields: International Relations, International Security, Chinese Foreign Affairs
Committee: Gary Bass (chair), Thomas Christensen, Rory Truex
M.A. Public Affairs: Security Studies and International Relations, 2014.

St Antony's College, Oxford University

M.Sc. African Studies, Distinction 2008.

Wadham College, Oxford University

B.A. Psychology with Philosophy, First Class Honours 2006.

DISSERTATION

Threatening the Nation

A book-length project that examines the impact of international human rights pressure on public opinion in the target country, using the case of China. It analyses further how authoritarian regimes deal with international pressure domestically and choose to report on it to their public.

WORKING PAPERS

Dangerous Days: The Impact of National Anniversaries on International Conflict
(revise and resubmit - Security Studies)

How Terrorist Attacks Influence the Effectiveness of Naming and Shaming Human Rights Abuses (under review)

When Human Rights Pressure Backfires: A Survey Experiment on Women's Rights in China

WORKS-IN PROGRESS

Unintended consequences of human rights pressure: How nationalism affects the likelihood of international conflict

Nationalism, international pressure, and attitudes to the ivory trade in China

The impact of war anniversaries on attitudes towards territorial disputes

An organisational analysis of domestic repression: How joint foreign and domestic threats shape security apparatuses (w/ Alexander Bollfrass)

POSITIONS,
FELLOWSHIPS,
& AWARDS

Visiting Scholar, Dept. of International Affairs, University of Nottingham
Ningbo China, 2016

Bradley Foundation Fellowship, 2015/2016 and 2016/2017

Centre for International Strategic Studies, 2015/2016 and 2016/2017

Princeton East Asian Studies Fellowship, 2013

Princeton Institute of International and Regional Studies Fellowship, 2013

Princeton University Fellowship, 2012 - 2017

Wadham College Scholarship, 2004 and 2006

PRESENTATIONS

International Studies Association Pacific meeting, 2016 (forthcoming)

University of Nottingham Ningbo International Studies faculty colloquium (invited), 2016

Midwest Political Science Association meeting, 2016

Princeton University Woodrow Wilson School graduate research seminar, 2016

China and International Relations graduate workshop, UPenn, 2015

TEACHING

Princeton University
Chinese Politics, Autumn 2015 (w/Professor Rory Truex)
Psychology of Decision Making and Judgement, Autumn 2014 (w/Professor Eldar Shafir)

Ludong University, China
English Language Teacher and Lecturer, Autumn 2008

Anhui University of Technology and Science, China
English Language Teacher, Autumn 2006

GOVERNMENT EXPERIENCE

United Kingdom Joint Terrorism Analysis Centre (JTAC)
London Olympics Threat Analyst, 2011 - 2012
Intelligence assessments and briefings on terrorist threats to 2012 Olympics

United Kingdom Ministry of Defence
European Union Desk Officer, 2010 - 2011
Policy work and briefings to senior military officials and government ministers

Policy Officer, Afghanistan Main Effort Civilian Team, 2009 - 2010
Develop policy to improve civilian support to operations in Afghanistan

OTHER

NGO work: International Bridges to Justice, Xian, China, February - July 2009

Civil-Military relations: UK MoD Armed Forces Course, May - June 2010

Languages: Mandarin Chinese (research-level); French (conversational)

Programming: Stata, L<sup>A</sup>T<sub>E</sub>X

REFERENCES

Gary J. Bass, Professor of Politics and International Affairs, gjbass@princeton.edu

Thomas J. Christensen, Professor of World Politics of Peace and War, tchriste@princeton.edu

Rory Truex, Assistant Professor of Politics and Public Affairs, rtruex@princeton.edu